Reception at Woodlawn.

The social event of paramount interest during the past week, was the garden party that was given Monday afternoon at Woodlawn by Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham and Mrs. Harold Dillingham. The tropical grounds which are among the most extensive and beautiful in Honolulu made an attractive environment for the out-of-door entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dillingham and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham received their 400 guests under a ponelana regia. Under the spreading tree, were bowls and jardiniere, containing white roses and Calla lilies placed on pedestals and tabourets of carved Italian wood. The long driveway bordered on either cut flowers, placed in tall vases and bowls. The proximity of Kaula's Hawaiian singing boys, who played and sang sweet Hawaiian melodies gave zest to the affair. Under a large canopy, festooned with amalf and malle, the tea and coffee were poured. Mrs. Corrit P. Wilder, Mrs. John Erdman and Mrs. Alfred Castle presided at different times at the coffee urn. Mrs. George Davies, Mrs. Richard Ivers and Mrs. William Whitney poured the tea. These beverages were served from one large circular table. In the center was placed an Italian marble stone vase containing American Beauty roses. Dotted over the lawn, were small tables, placed to accommodate four guests. Post Nuptial Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bradley Wheeler of Pasadena who are spending their honeymoon in Honolulu were the guests of honor Tuesday evening at a post nuptial dinner at the Colonial at which Mr. and Mrs. John Teague Warren were host and hostess. The guests included only young married people and among them were two other November brides, Mrs. Sherwood Lowrey, nee Kopke, and Mrs. Percy Cleghorn, nee Hough of Sacramento, whose weddings like Mrs. Wheeler's took place in the month of chrysanthemums.

Yellow chrysanthemums, which were profusely used in the decorations for Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler's wedding, were used on the table, with artistic effect. In the center of the round table which was set on the spacious lawn, was a low brown basket filled with the fluffy yellow blossoms and sprays of maiden hair ferns, caught with great bows of yellow chiffon. At each place was a miniature rustic basket of almonds, the handles being caught with small chrysanthemums and ferns and tied with yellow satin ribbons. Sprays of ferns were scattered over the cloth. Crystal candlesticks holding white tapers shaded in yellow silken shades added to the pretty effect. The color scheme of pale yellow and white was further carried out in loaves and confections. The place cards were in the form of hearts bearing hand tinted vignettes of typical Hawaiian scenes, and the hearts were pierced by little arrows of gilt and silver.

An hour of bridge was enjoyed after dinner, the prize a popular book of fiction "The Warrens of Virginia" was awarded to Mrs. Louis Warren who held the highest score.

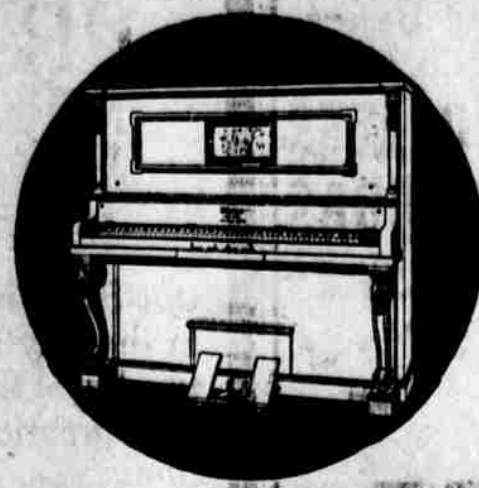

Mrs. Wheeler, the guest of compliment, wore a beautiful imported frock of white lace over flesh colored chiffon, with little Frenchy touches of green chiffon in the garland, and she wore a necklace of pearls and diamonds. The hostess wore pale mauve colored satin veiled in white embroidered chiffon with garlands of gold roses; Mrs. Louis Warren, sister of the hostess, was gowned in pale blue silk with garlands of silver and she wore topaz ornaments. Mrs. Cleghorn's gown was an exceptionally lovely one of pink satin veiled in white chiffon and garlanded with satin roses in pale blue and rose color, and she wore a handsome necklace and pins of diamonds and rubies and a bandeau of pearl and gold in her hair. Mrs. Sherwood Lowrey was charmingly gowned in pale green crepe de chine with garlands of exquisite thread lace. Mrs. Clarence Olson wore a Paris frock of cream chiffon satin veiled in chiffon and trimmed with rare lace and a touch of gold, and a pearl and dull gold bandeau in her hair.

Those asked to meet Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler were Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Lowrey, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cleghorn, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Warren. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler will leave on the Manchuria, Dec. 16 for the coast, arriving home in time to spend Christmas with their parents.

Men's Clothes Cleaned and Pressed

The work we do on men's clothes is very much better than that at the average pressing shop.

We really clean clothes: not merely sponge them over and remove, for a brief time, a few spots by local treatment.

And we press your garments as would a tailor. Make them fit right, set right and hold their shape.

Our service may cost you a little more, but it's cheaper in the end, as cleanings are not required so often.
